Description	On December 18, 2021, the MBA and MCA departments of Aurora PG College (MCA), Uppal, organized a workshop titled "Using Statistics in Research: Basic Tools and Techniques." The workshop aimed to highlight the importance of statistics in helping researchers make sense of complex data sets by offering methods for summarizing and interpreting large volumes of information. Without a strong grasp of statistics, researchers may struggle to draw meaningful conclusions from their data. The workshop was conducted by Dr. Kumbala Pradeep Reddy, Professor and Head of the Department of CSE at CMR Institute of Technology, Hyderabad. The objective of the workshop was to demonstrate how proper statistical analysis enables researchers to draw well-supported conclusions based on data, leading to more robust and credible research findings. Statistics allow researchers to provide recommendations grounded in empirical evidence, influencing policy, practice, and further research. The application of statistical methods enhances the overall quality of research by ensuring that findings are accurate, replicable, and generalizable. Outcomes of the workshop included equipping researchers with the skills to make data-backed conclusions, resulting in stronger research findings. Attendees appreciated the practical advice and real-world examples shared by the speaker. Overall, the workshop on "Using Statistics in Research: Basic Tools

and Techniques" successfully achieved its objectives by providing valuable insights and practical skills essential for conducting effective research
